This is your guide to
Adult Care and Support

This guide is for anyone over the age of 18. This could include you if:

- You think that you, or someone you know, might need care and support now or in the future
- You, or someone you know, currently receives care and support in the home or in a care home
- You are caring for a friend or family member
- You are concerned about someone who may be at risk of abuse

It tells you about:

- How to find information on services and activities that can help you to stay healthy, active and independent for longer
- Adult Social Care – what it is and what we do
- How we work out if your needs are at a level at which the Council should fund social care support to help you
- Planning and paying for your care and support
- Getting support if you are a carer
- What to do if you are concerned about someone who may be at risk of abuse (Safeguarding)
- How to contact Redcar & Cleveland Adult Social Care, including what to do in emergency

Do you need some help to stay active, healthy and independent?

There are many things you can do to help yourself keep healthy, active and independent. By looking after yourself and making your own care and support arrangements as your needs begin to develop, you can often delay or avoid the need for social care services. There are many organisations which can help when you need some support or advice.

We can provide information on services and activities which are available to everyone in your community. These include things like leisure activities, lunch and social clubs and services such as ‘handyman’, cleaning or befriending (someone to keep you company). You may have to pay for some of these services although some will be free.

You can find out more by searching the directory of services on the Redcar & Cleveland PIN website www.peoplesinfonet.org.uk (or google ‘Redcar pin’). If you need help with finding services on the PIN please call Families Information Service on 0800 073 8800.

What is care and support?
Care and support is the general term used to describe a wide range of help that some adults need to live as well as possible with any long-term illness, condition or disability they may have. It includes things like:

- Help given by family and friends, for example help with shopping
- Activities or services which you arrange yourself, for example lunch clubs or help with housework
- Services provided or arranged by the Council or other organisations, for example someone coming in to help you get dressed each day
- Support for people caring for another adult

Care and support can often be arranged by yourself, giving you choice and control over the type of services which will help with your needs. Our service directory www.peoplesinfonet.org.uk (or google ‘Redcar pin’) has information on a wide range of services including social activities, help to stay in your own home, housing and care home contacts.
What is Adult Social Care?

Adult Social Care is a council service. Some people know it as ‘Social Services.’ Adult Social Care provides or arranges care and support services for people who need them.

Our aim is to help adults live longer and healthier lives and be independent for as long as possible. We do this by making sure that you have the support you need, when you need it, for as long as you need it.

We (the Council) carry out an assessment of your needs to see if you are eligible for our help. If you are not eligible, we will give you information and advice that will help you to make choices about alternative care and support that is available within your community.

If you are eligible for support, we can offer a range of care and support services to meet your needs. Some are provided by us (the Council) and some are provided by other organisations on our behalf.

The broad range of services mean you may come into contact with different types of professionals depending on your needs. These may include Social Workers, Social Care Officers, Occupational Therapists and Care Assistants. All staff carry identification and will introduce themselves to you.

Getting help from Adult Social Care

You can contact us directly or you can give someone else permission to contact us on your behalf. Our contact details are at the end of this guide. When you contact us we will ask for some details and talk about how we can help you. Depending on your enquiry, this help may include providing information or advice or arranging for an assessment of your needs.

Working out what your needs are (assessment)

If you need an assessment, someone from the Adult Social Care team will come to talk to you. When you have your assessment, you may wish to have someone with you, for example a relative, a friend or someone who cares for you.

If you need help communicating, we will make sure that you have the right support to enable you to tell us your views and wishes.

When we come to see you we will talk about:

- The things that are important to you and your family
- Things that you find difficult to do in your daily living
• How this affects your health and wellbeing
• Any care and support you receive from your family and friends
• What you would like to be able to achieve with care and support
• The things that you can do to keep yourself healthy, active and independent
• Services and activities that could meet your needs in your community

We use national eligibility criteria to help us understand how your needs affect your day to day life and work out whether the Council should provide social care support to help you. This ensures that people are treated fairly and equally. Once your assessment is complete we will tell you if you are eligible to receive help from Adult Social Care.

If you are not eligible for help from the Council we will explain why and tell you about other services or activities that may be able to help you. If your circumstances change and you find you are having greater difficulty in managing everyday activities, you can contact us and ask for another assessment.

Paying for your care and support

Although some care and support services will not cost you anything, most are chargeable. We will carry out a separate financial assessment to find out how much you are able to afford to pay towards the services you need.

A financial assessment looks at how much money you receive and have to pay out each week, and how much money you have saved or invested. The amount you have to pay is calculated using government rules. This means some people do not pay at all, some pay a contribution and some pay the full cost.

You can find out more information in our separate Guide to Paying for your Care and Support. This is available on our website at www.redcar-cleveland.gov.uk/adultcare

Planning your care and support

If you are eligible for support we will develop a Support Plan with you. This will include:

• What your needs are
• What you want to achieve with care and support
• The type of care and support that will help you
• Who will provide your care and support
• When they will provide your care and support
• The date when your support plan will be reviewed
Your support plan might include help that is provided by friends and family, things that you can access for free in the community, or care and support services that are funded by the Council.

If the Council is funding some or all of your care and support, we will help you to decide whether you want us to organise the services for you, or if you would prefer to arrange some or all of it yourself through a direct payment. A direct payment is money that the Council pays directly to you so that you can choose and buy care and support that meets your needs.

Once we have agreed your support plan, you will be given a copy to keep. We will review your support plan after six weeks and then at least once a year after that. When we review your support plan with you we will see if your care and support needs have changed. If necessary we will agree a new support plan with you.

You can find out more about care and support plans, and about direct payments at www.redcar-cleveland.gov.uk/adultcare

Helping you through the process (advocacy)

If you find it difficult to have your say about your care and support or to understand some of the things we are talking about, you can appoint someone to help you. This could be a family member, a friend or an independent advocate. An independent advocate is someone who can support you while we talk about your care and support. They can help you to make choices and be involved in decisions about your care and support. The Council can arrange for an independent advocate to support you if you do not want to organise this yourself. You can ask your social care worker to organise this for you.

Getting support if you are a carer

If you provide unpaid care for an adult family member or friend, you might need support to help you look after your own health and wellbeing. We can arrange for an assessment of your needs to help you continue in your role as carer, even if the person you care for does not receive care and support from Adult Social Care.

Assessments are carried out on the Council’s behalf by Carers Together, a local organisation based in Redcar. They will develop a plan with you to help with your needs. Support for carers includes befriending, breaks from caring, activities, counselling, advice on welfare benefits, training and employment and general information and advice.

You can contact Carers Together directly to ask for a carer’s assessment or to request other information and advice about being a carer. Alternatively, you can contact Adult Social Care using the contact details at the end of this guide.

There is also support available for young people aged 5-18 who care for a family member. Support is delivered by the Junction Foundation, a Redcar based organisation. Young people can contact The Junction themselves or someone else can do it on their behalf. Their telephone number is 01642 756000 or visit www.thejunctionfoundation.com

If you care for a child with a disability, help may be available through the Council’s Children and Families team. You can contact them on 01642 771500.

What to do if you are concerned about someone? (Safeguarding)
Adult abuse can happen to anyone and keeping people safe is the concern of the whole community. If you have any concerns about the wellbeing or safety of another adult or need advice or support you must do one or more of the following:

- If the person you are concerned about is in immediate danger contact the police or ambulance service immediately (999)
- If possible, and you are able to do so safely, talk to the person you are concerned about
- Discuss your concerns with someone you trust, for example a care-worker, warden, doctor, nurse or other health worker
- Contact Redcar & Cleveland Adult Social Care - the contact details, including the Emergency Duty Service for out of office hours, are at the end of this guide.

Any concern or allegation will be taken seriously. You do not have to give us your name if you choose not to. After you contact us we will review the information you have given to decide what action to take. If safeguarding procedures are appropriate we will follow the Teeswide Safeguarding Adult Multi-Agency Procedure.
Contacting us if our offices are closed

The Emergency Duty Service provides an emergency contact point for social work in Redcar & Cleveland outside of normal opening hours. This includes during the night, weekends and bank holidays. The service provides help or advice for urgent individual or family problems that require immediate social work attention. An emergency situation is one which cannot wait until the next working day.

If the situation is life-threatening or requires immediate attention you should call the police or ambulance service (999) immediately.

What to do if you are not happy with the support you receive or decisions which are made about you

If you are unhappy about decisions which affect you or the support you receive, please speak to a member of our social care staff. Problems can often be resolved quickly and informally by talking things over.

If you are still unhappy or feel your concerns have not been resolved there is a formal procedure which we will follow. You can find our Complaints, Comments and Compliments procedure on www.redcar-cleveland.gov.uk or use the contact details at the end of this guide.

Information about you (Data Protection)

To help us understand and meet your needs we ask you for information about yourself and close relatives and carers. During your assessment we also gather information about your health and support needs. We keep a record of meetings and any correspondence with you. If we work with other people or organisations to plan and provide your support, we need to share your information with them. We will ask you to agree to this. We are committed to keeping your information safe and confidential and we follow strict guidelines.

You can find full details of the Council’s Data Protection Policy on www.redcar-cleveland.gov.uk or from the contact details at the end of this guide.
If you need help to read or understand this guide, please speak to your health or social care worker, or contact Adult Social Care on 01642 771500
